

Living and working for the Trees: The German Tree Care Conference (Deutsche Baumpflegetage)

Since the foundation in 1993 the German Tree Care Conference in Augsburg (Deutsche Baumpflegetage) have become the most important European event for advanced training in arboriculture. The triad of Conference, Tree Climbing Forum and arboricultural Trade Show attracts more and more visitors from Europe and overseas to come to the town of the Fuggers every year. Representatives of organizations, municipal experts, specialists, scientists, landscape architects and of course arborists come together on neutral ground on all three days of the conference to share the latest findings. The focus is on a healthy and sustainable handling of trees: “All our participants are unified in the intention to protect and preserve the tree. You can feel this basic attitude everywhere on the German Tree Care Conference”, the organizer of the arboricultural event, Prof. Dr. Dirk Dujesiefken, says.

More information on: www.deutsche-baumpflegetage.de

Zuständige für die Pressearbeit: